Continuation of 2. NOTE: claim 7 has been amended to recite that the administration is "intravenously" which raises new issues since it was not claimed before. Parenteral administration is quite different from intravenous.

Continuation of 5. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: Meisner clearly administers S-methylcysteine to a patient, see claim 1. All applicant's claims require is that a patient is administered the compound (S-methylcysteine). The effects of the compound are inherent to the compound. The compound is the same compound as applicants administer and is given to a patient as applicants have done, thus the process is the same and the effects of the compound are inherent to that compound.
